Hostpoint gets Head of Web Hosting from Swisscom

Rapperswil-Jona, March 5th, 2008 – Yvan Knapp (33) takes up his post as CCO (Chief Customer Officer) with the Rapperswil-Jona-based hosting-company as of 1 April 2008, where he will establish and lead the new support organisation. Hostpoint is thus reacting to the increased demands in the support sector. Knapp was previously jointly responsible for the establishment of the hosting sector at Swisscom subsidiary Bluewin.

The arrival of Yvan Knapp sees the combination of an experienced business and IT manager with the leading hosting services provider from Rapperswil-Jona. Since 1999, he has made a significant contribution to the successful establishment and development of the Bluewin HostCenter at Swisscom. At Hostpoint, he will head the support organisation and be an important mainstay for the three proprietors Röllin, Bertschinger and Gebert. The current CCO and co-owner of Hostpoint, Claudius Röllin, will in future devote more of his time to his specialisms in sales and new markets.

"We are extremely happy to have acquired the services of Yvan Knapp," says Sandro Bertschinger, CFO of Hostpoint. "We are killing two birds with one stone. On the one hand we have in him a proven and experienced manager for our support organisation. We can also benefit from his many years of product management experience in order to make even better services available to our customers. On the other hand, Claudius Röllin will be able to concentrate on his strategic strengths in future. He will analyse new markets for us, promote sales, develop products or assist me in marketing matters."
